This is you . . . the Cleveland student.

You have played the game—on the field, in the stands. And have walked daily through our busy halls.

Our theme this year is familiar, but we couldn't find one more important and interesting to devote seventy-two pages to than YOU.

We have tried to capture you as you go about your school life, which without the many activities, services, good times and studies, would not be quite complete.

To you we give the Aquila, hoping that it will hold for you reminders of the wonderful, carefree high school days, Louie's, Jamborees, scholastic achievements and favorite classmates. In short, our 1953-54 high school days.

Activities

Poison and laughter dominated the zany mass murder comedy, "Arsenic and Old Lace," presented March 18 and 19.

Mystery, romance and Creole-type singing and dancing were seen in this year's Vodvil, "Come to the Mardi Gras," which was centered around a Spanish courtyard in New Orleans.

The main family, the Estrades, were portrayed by Joan Kalyk, Pat Vomicil, Teresa Vallala, Don Vallala, Marilyn Falsetto, Andra Traverso, and Maebeth Thurber.

Friends of the family were Don La-Plant, Lowell Garner, Richard Ranta, Joanne Wheeler, Susan Ralph, Rocky Di-Julio, Margaret Lindsay, and Loren Christensen.

Friends across the courtyard were Jean Zandt, Jean Giaccarini, and Dorothy Neilson. A mysterious cat, Gumbo, caused most of the trouble.

Many thanks to Miss Raine and Mr. Svare for helping to make this year's performance a big success.

"Loyal and Sincere in Friendship"

Hi Girls!

The Girls' Club, in addition to welcoming new girls, welcomed the new Girls' Adviser, Miss Whittaker, who immediately became a friend and counselor.

Very proud of the Girls' Club, she holds dear her many social and advisory activities. One of the outstanding projects of the year was the Mother-Daughter Banquet, "Along the Mississippi," to which many girls contributed long, tiring hours of effort. Among the other activities are the monthly assemblies, cozies, and parties. The Girls' Club renders service to the entire school by the clever and timely decorations in the cafeteria, and the service performed by the hall and locker duty girls.

Boys' Club History Grows

Hi, Boys!

The Boys' Club entertained a very successful year, from the Father-Son banquet down to the draft reminders sent out by the Social Service Committee. High Flyers sponsored a drive to confiscate ancient ice-boxes which have become national death traps for children.

Many new things were added to the club this year, among them a Welcoming Committee to help the adjustment of new students, a featured sports corner on the Boys' Club presented its full slate of assemblies covering these things: armed forces, mountain rescue, self-defense and Seattle University basketball. The Art Committee turned in an exceptional job, taking many additional projects and delivering superbly. With organization by Social Service and help of High Flyers a P.-T.A. clothing drive reached the top. Ping pong tournaments were part of the activity of Boys' Club during the second semester.

Hope You Like Your Book

As the words "sign my annual" echo in our halls it means another year of turmoil, exciting though it was, is over for another Aquila Staff. Even with its headaches I think no member of the staff would have traded the year-round job for anything else. And as the last pictures and copy are in without anything to do on the annual we'll all be lost.

Among the hubbub in 308 in one corner you might have found Marilyn and Andra searching for verbs and adjectives to put a speck of originality into their copy. "No, he spells his name "Browne." "Well, I still say it's Brown." And that is Pat and Charlene arguing over names. By now they should know just about everyone in school. The best job of all was Mary's, if not the hardest, for a business manager needs patience. If 2 + 2 = 5, it was up to her to find where the extra one came from.

Just take a look at Janet's cartoon drawings—they speak for themselves as to what she and her handy pencil can do when an artistic mind gets to thinking. Without Vic I don't know where we'd be, for he certainly proved to be a jack-of-all-trades, besides a wonderful photographer. We have Vic to thank for a lot of the pictures in this book. Whether it be baseball, track or golf there was always sport copy for Randy to write and pictures for Richard to dummy up.

As for the editor, it was up to me to crack the whip over a crew whose patience daily astounded me, and to take all my problems to Mr. Snyder, our adviser, who was quick to help solve them.

The staff and I are proud to have played a part in recording Cleveland's work, play, tears, and laughter for another year. Hope you like your book.

1953 Football

Cleveland's football squad walked off the field for the final game of the 1953 regular season at Memorial Stadium, with seven straight setbacks behind them. However, this team differed considerably from the typical last team. For the Eagles had an aerial attack unequaled anywhere in the league and a defense known city-wide to stiffen beyond penetration on numerous occasions inside her own five-yard line. Instead, the Eagles were victims of their own mistakes. This frequently led to touchdowns which normally could have been prevented.

Across the line, Cleveland could be as tough as any. Moberg, McVay, Redmond, Langenegger, and McArthur provided most of this fine line play. The passing combination of Minice to Beers was a severe test to any team's defensive ability.

Tackle Dwight Moberg was awarded the Inspirational Award by his teammates. Paul Redmond and Moberg co-captained the 1953 Eagles.

Both Dick Minice and Dick Beers were elected to the All-City squads, another unusual characteristic of a last place team.

1954 Basketball

In 1954, high school basketball in Seattle rose to great heights with one of the most interesting and exciting seasons ever witnessed by followers of the increasingly popular sport in this area. Typical of this, was the opening of the first basketball jamboree held at Hec Edmundson Pavillion. This extremely colorful spectacle featured all eight high schools, playing four regulation quarters in which the traditional East-West battle was maintained. Cleveland's 9 point contribution to the East in the third quarter being somewhat obscure in comparison to Lincoln's 18 points accumulated during the same period. The final score, West 64, East 50.

The league itself was one of the strongest in several seasons. The fact that the city champs from Franklin lost three games during the regular season indicates this. Furthermore, the final standings found three teams deadlocked for second place. Garfield, who emerged second place victors, went all the way to the finals in the state tourney before losing, placing Seattle teams 1, 2 in the state.

This situation was unfortunate for Cleveland's quintet, since they had to participate against such fine competition. The Eagles were victorious only once in 16 starts, although the defending champions were never considered pushovers. The 54-51 triumph over West Seattle during midseason was the only occasion when the Eagles could outscore their opponents.

Paul Redmond, Dick Beers, and Dick Minice, each of whom received honorable mention rating on the All-City squads, provided the scoring punch for our Red and White.

Inspirational Award went to Paul Redmond, while Dick Beers was elected honorary team captain.

Golf

The 1954 golf squad was a pretty steady outfit throughout. Bob Gordon is one of the top boys in the city, and along with seniors Mike Malispino and Dean Turnbull, there will be nothing to concede this year.

Tennis

The 1954 tennis squad was hit extremely hard by graduation and can't in any sense of the word be considered title contenders. However, Coach Langley is developing some hard-working underclassmen, with the anticipation of having a winning season in the near future. Elmer Chinn is the only letterman returning.

'54 TRACK

Although the Eagles do have noticeable strength in some events, it is felt that the loss of Nat Crawford, Al Roberts, and Fred Byrd through graduation has hurt the 1954 team's chances considerably. Whether or not this situation will improve before the All-City is a question which only time can answer.

Cleveland is weak in field events this season, as they have been for the past three years. Junior shot-putter Gail Richardson may remedy this situation somewhat, judging from his early performances.

Miler Arnie Moore and half-miler Ron Hornung are two outstanding boys who have excellent opportunities to capture All-City honors. Sprinters La Mar Sampson and Johnny Barton are returning, hoping to replace the absence of Al Roberts and Bob Williams.

Cleveland will, nevertheless, be well represented in the All-City meet again this spring.

1954 Baseball

Six games have been played at this writing and the Eagles have, in each case, been victorious. With the season half completed, Cleveland leads the league and has definite intentions of remaining there, judging from her fine play thus far.

The pressure is definitely on for this year's nine for they are trying to distinguish themselves as the first team in history to win three consecutive baseball championships.

Although Cleveland was forecast to finish somwhere in the second division, the Eagles have got their bats whistling to a tune of 9 hits per game, and this, along with Dick Minice's pitching success, has provided victory in each attempt. Only two of the regulars are hitting under .350, and both have shown indications of altering this completely. All boys are performing very well and to give special recognition to one or two would be unfair. However, we must single out coaches Ed Landon and Rex Scott for developing such fine athletes at Cleveland.

It was frequently said that the 1953 Eagle nine was one of the strongest high school teams to ever participate in city play. Rarely do athletes of this caliber play for a single team during a single season.

Rex Scott's outstanding ball club was defeated only once in 12 starts during the regular season, losing a 6-4 thriller to Roosevelt.

The greatness of this nine can best be illustrated by mentioning that six of the regulars were given first team births on the All-City squad. A seventh was chosen to the second team, despite the fact that he hit some 80 points better percentage-wise than the player picked before him. Another example, more convincing, is that of the nine regulars, seven were selected to take part in the annual City - State clash. Furthermore, the remaining two starters would most likely have been asked to play also, if their underclass stature had not interfered with their eligibility.

In the city playoffs at Sicks' Stadium, Cleveland came from behind, as they had so often during the year, to defeat their South End rivals from Franklin, 9 to 4.

Throughout the season this truly great baseball machine had dominated the season's play with their excellent pitching, great fielding, and batting punch which exploded game after game.

Recognition—

Honoring Our Athletes

The year 1953-54 could not be regarded as an outstanding one in athletics for our school; however, Cleveland did possess a group of very fine athletes. The purpose of this writing is to give recognition to these boys for their performances in their respective sports this season.

Football provided an array of standouts, namely All-City members Dick Minice and Dick Beers. If the rules of football limited forward movement of the ball through passing alone, the Eagles would have won the championship hands down. Since the rules do not specify this, Cleveland's aerial attack could not play such an overwhelming part. Linemen Dwight Moberg and Dave McVay were voted honorable mention on the All-City listings. Moberg was also presented with the inspirational award while Paul Redmond was elected honorary team captain.

The sport of basketball also had many fine boys at Cleveland. Honorable mention went to three very deserving individuals, Dick Beers, Paul Redmond, and Dick Minice. All were well up among the leaders in the scoring department..

The less publicized sport of skiing was a very successful one for the Eagles. They captured fourth place in the All-City amongst twelve entries. Special recognition goes to Denny Peterson for the honor of winning the All-City downhill.

Although the Eagles have consistently been in the lower division in the minor sports of tennis and golf, there are, nevertheless, several boys worthy of mention. Elmer Chinn, for example, is a very solid operator when it comes to hitting a tennis ball. Bob Gordon has been one of the top linksmen year after year and deserves plenty of credit for his very fine work. Mike Malispino and Dean Turnbull have been replacing their divots for four seasons and must be mentioned in this section also.

The term baseball brings out a brighter side to the athletic picture here at Cleveland and it is at this time that the Eagles are riding high in first place with a perfect record. While not predicting anything it is almost impossible to keep boys like Dick Minice and Denny Peterson off the All-City squad, and it's highly conceivable that boys like Joe Davis, Ken Sturman and Mike Yurina will break into this list of choice ball players.

Verdant Freshmen; Life Just Begun

Now comes the time when many changes come into the freshmen's lives. Girls are worrying about slimmer skirts and brighter lipsticks while boys are just beginning to notice what girls really look like.

Freshmen auxiliary, drill team, ski club, and various committees keep the girls busy while boys are busy worrying about which sport to turn out for, whether they're fast enough for track, tennis, baseball, and basketball or big enough for football.

This year's class helped decorate for a P.T.A. dance and set up the movie in the auditorium for Cleveland Day.

Gay Young Sophomores Learn Fast

The sophomores are on their way upward now, with so many students that next year's junior class should really have the get up and go.

Already in this class are ambitious lettermen who seem to help with school spirit. The girls are extremely busy in various organizations and work on several committees.

Again this year the sophomore class did a wonderful job in raising approximately one hundred dollars for the March of Dimes. Cleveland Day decorations through the school were also contributed by this class.

Art was a happy boy—whose smiles and gaiety are sincerely missed here in the halls of Cleveland. Art was born in Pasco, Washington, November 29, 1938. He and his parents moved to Seattle early in 1941.

Art attended Maple grade school, then came to Cleveland. His chief interests were with his family—fishing, swimming, and flying with his father.

Jolly Juniors Ready To Take Command

Many ambitious students from this class will next year be leading fellow students in activities, sports, and organizations. Boys will jump to varsity teams and Boys' club, while girls will take over Girls' club offices and committee work.

Many juniors laughed at the hard working seniors who were struggling along in Comp IV, Cont Prob, chem, and health, but now the laugh's backfired as the juniors are really just beginning to worry!

This year the juniors sponsored the Good Neighbor Drive, the dance in the girls' gym for Cleveland Day, and officers this year helped serve an appetizing dinner for the senior cast.

Seniors Recall Past Years

Our senior year now comes to a close with many fond memories of Cleveland High.

Graduating seniors are looking forward to new joys, new vocations, continued education, successful marriages and entering the service of their country. All the seniors say farewell with bright hopes for the future, but all will look back on their school days with appreciation for their guidance from teachers and parents.

Besides planning for the prom, senior luncheon, and graduation, the seniors also had time to help around school. Something new was added this year by the senior class, an appetizing dinner for the senior cast. The class also took care of the advertising for Cleveland day, and sending of invitations to Alumni.

Raymond Paul

Ray was born in Canada on October 2, 1935. Early in 1942 he moved to Seattle with his parents and brother. Ray attended Concord Grade School before coming to Cleveland.

His future plans included the Navy, as he was in the Naval Reserve. Some of his many hobbies included swimming, fishing and boating.

Torch Members Receive Scholarship

Dear Everybody:

It would take thousands of words to tell all we've done this year, but since we have only one hundred we'll waste no time in fanfare!

We had the Torch-Mothers' Reception in October with over 400 persons attending, and since then put on three more teas. We've ushered at school functions; brought our scholarship fund up to $350, and renamed it in honor of Lt. Ray Oleson, a former president, who was killed in action. We held an all-city Torch Conference; toured the University of Washington; put on two assemblies; made calendars for the faculty at Christmas, all in addition to our routine duties of bulletin boards, keeping records, and the scrapbook.

AWARDS WON THIS YEAR by energetic Cleveland students will guide the post-commencement lives of several graduates.

JEAN SMITH—Regional Scholastic Art Gold Key Award
BILL IWATA—Placing in Regional Scholastic Art Contest. Phi Beta Kappa Honorary Book Award
GARY HARWOOD—All-City Scholarship to Burnley School of Art
STEPHAN CHRISTOPHER—Fourth place in Hearst Oratorical Contest
ANNA LOLLINO—Phi Beta Kappa Honorary Book Award
PAT HOMISTON—Girls' Club Inspirational Committee Chairman

A new tradition at Cleveland is choosing the peppiest person of the year, one who is symbolic of the pep and enthusiasm Cleveland has shown throughout the years. This year JOAN KALYK has been an inspiration to the students today and sets a fine example for Cleveland's future peppiest persons.

Each "Girl of the Month" is chosen by the Girls' Club Standard Committee for her cooperation with Girls' Club, participation in school activities and student leadership. It is considered an honor by the Girls' Club to be picked as "Girl of the Month."

BETTY ANN SMITH, October
HETTIE GABRIEL, November
NEVA AVERSANO, December
THERESA VALLALA, January
ELEANOR FETTERS, February
MARILYN ANDERSON, March
DONNA LINDBERG, April

"Boy of the Month" is chosen on the basis of activity in church and school, B grade average, politeness, courtesy and activity in community projects. The "Boy of the Month" is chosen by the Central Boys' Club office and not by the school.

The 1954 Commencement will be built around this creed.

We believe

In the existence of a Supreme Being: that by endowing us with power to think, aspire and create, God has breathed into us a spark of himself.

In the magnitude of education: that true education is a continuous process throughout life, and that wisdom is more than mere knowledge.

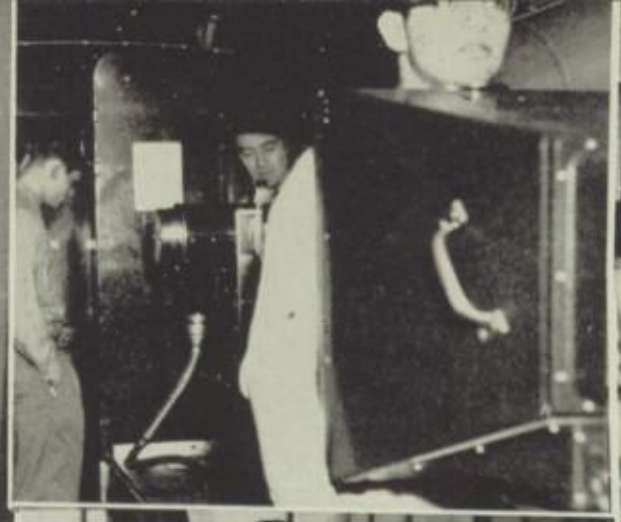
In the freedom of our democracy; that freedom involves risk and responsibility that every citizen must assume.

In the importance of our fellowmen: that all mankind is one family under God, and that an understanding of humanity gives our own lives more purpose.

In the enrichment of our personal lives: that our appreciation of true values will develop through insight and integrity, and that maturity means tolerance and understanding.

In the promise of the future: that by our will to advance culturally, socially, and spiritually, we shall continue to progress toward a better world.

This is our Creed.



MOBILE X-RAY

Dear Diary:

September

School begins Sept. 9; hard to get up. Time to fill out office cards, have football exams, get transit cards, and trade season pass pictures. Ruined lungs in pep assembly and wore Red and White to the football Jamboree. Spent $2.45 for a senior pin, then didn't have it long.

October

Went to the first football game with Ballard. Received Torch Club pin, P.-T. A. ID tags, I was shot (class picture for the annual). Contributed to United Good Neighbor Fund. Mr. Campbell told of Cleveland's good Hallowe'en record at the combined Hallowe'en and pep assembly. Loafed for one day while teachers attended institute.

November

Enjoyed the Reverend Theron Zimmerman's speech at Armistice Day Assembly plus the one day vacation afterwards. Did you see the homecoming football game with Garfield? Brought dad to the Father-Son Banquet. "Come to the Marde Gras" was a big success. Report cards again! Admission Day to recuperate.

December

Member from the Armed Forces talked to senior boys. Good musical assemblies — Linfield Choir, Seattle Symphony Orchestra, and Christmas pageant. A long-awaited vacation.

January

Back to school January 4. First basketball Jamborgee at Edmundson Pavilion. Attended first game with Ballard. Contributed to March of Dimes and Red Cross. Represented Cleveland at Traffic Safety Conference. It snowed! No school, no tests for one day.

February

P.-T. A. holds annual Founders Day. Now better acquainted with student government because of orientation assembly. G. C. officers attend all-city G. C. Conference. The band has new sparkling instruments! Lost last basketball game to Lincoln. Good old George Washington, a day of vacation.

March

Franklin wins state basketball championship. Got my chest X-ray in the T. B. mobile unit, did you? "Arsenic and Old Lace" is mixed in with Cleveland Day. Now on crutches, broke leg spring skiing!

April

Test, Easter assembly and now spring vacation for a whole week only to see report cards on return. Surely you enjoyed hearing the All-City Band play. Spring sports opening. Won opening baseball game. Tennis, golf and track under way. Bought mom a corsage for the Mother-Daughter Banquet.

May

A busy month for the Girls' and Boys' Club with nominating assemblies, elections and installation of new officers. Drama class gives Shakespearian play. Perk, cheery songs heard at the Spring Concert. Memorial Day assembly and holiday. Seniors dress up. Finally discover secret theme of Senior Tea.

June

Spring sports are winding up. All City golf and tennis tournaments and track meet. Goodbye to the class of '54. They've had a busy month, moving up day assembly, tests, prom, senior luncheon and commencement, while seniors are wishing they were only in school again. The frosh, sophomores and juniors will be busy signing annuals until 9:15 a.m. June 18.

Till next year! Eddie and Elsie Eagle

As We Part . . .

To help us make an adequate record of Cleveland's student life we of the Aquila staff are grateful to the many individuals and concerns who gave generously of their services and advice. We thank Mr. Davis, Mr. Imus and the office staff for their guidance and cooperation. We can't forget our faithful picture staff who were ready to make our requests or help whenever we needed them, nor the understanding teachers, who, when we needed their help, responded graciously. A load of thanks to our adviser, Mr. Snyder, to whom we all took our problems.

We sought the friendly help of the following companies and gratefully thank them for their work on the Aquilla.
